

San Diego Symphony.

Rafael Payare | Music Director

MELODY AND HARMONY

Callan Milani

We will read
the story together as READER'S THEATER!

THE TEACHER reads
the pink bubbles.

MELODY reads
the orange bubbles.

HARMONY reads
the purple bubbles.

THE CLASS reads
the green bubbles.

Let's begin!

Melody is sound and rhythm
organized to make a song.

Anyone can sing a melody.

Even a flea.

Meet Melody.

Most nights, Melody sings solos all alone hoping to connect with a friend.

But tonight was
no ordinary night.

In the distance, Melody heard
a cacophony of sound.

Could this be the ensemble she's been hoping for?

Melody found something unexpected...

Hi! I'm Melody.

Melody is sound and rhythm
organized to make a song.

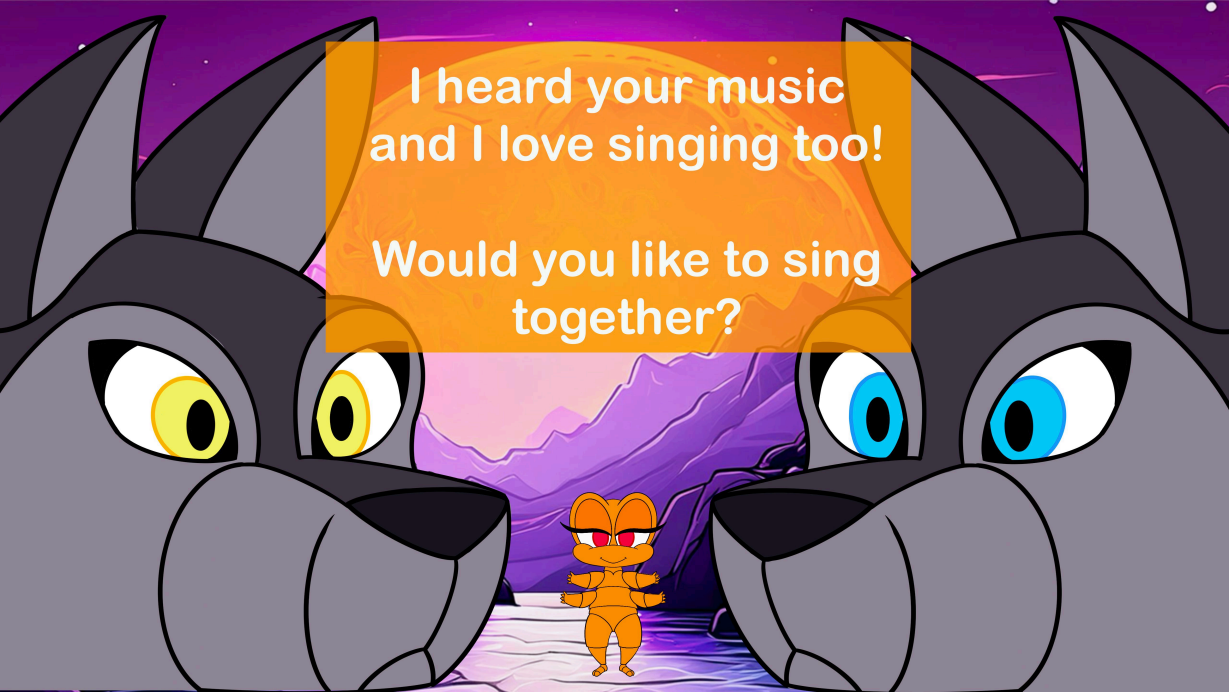

It's nice to meet you.

What is your name?

Hi! We're Harmony.

Harmony is two or more sounds
heard at once.

I heard your music
and I love singing too!

Would you like to sing
together?

Sure! As you heard, we're all trying to express something different.

Maybe your melodies can help us connect our harmonies?

Tell me how you're feeling.

My music feels
HAPPY.

My music feels
SAD.

My music feels
ANGRY.

My music feels
CALM.

My music feels
SURPRISING.

A night scene with a full moon, stars, and a glowing cave entrance. The sky is dark purple and blue, filled with white stars and a large, bright yellow full moon. In the foreground, there are dark, jagged mountains. A cave entrance is visible in the center, glowing with a bright green light. The scene is framed by a dark purple border.

Not everyone wanted to sing together.

Lurking in the shadows, one sister was plotting a deceptive cadence.

To be continued...